Hello Paco,

Part two of today, about my remarks in general:

- * Ticket prices: in general OK, but seniors and children are really USED to very cheap ticket prices. I noticed you used 15% of the turnover in these cells, so it's not a huge percentage. We should discuss (again) with my local staff a different price setting or "?". Students (?): not mentioned: possible 8 - 10 Euros. Please add 'cell'.
- * I didn't use additional possible income in my sheets (I simply can't judge) I will leave the figures in 'Sub Total Ancillary'
- * Start up costs > installation 252k. What about our running office costs in St.Petersburg? Please advise.
- * Venue construction: might be considerably lower. Read and discuss 'rider' first: what's actually needed.
- * I presume we will provide you with rather cheap staffing. At least 'reliable' people is necessary.
- * Production related: we have to discuss this face-to-face. Local costs might be (much) cheaper as expected. But, we really need to sit down and translate the rider into 'costs'.
- * Marketing: Ok, but also tbd after meeting(s) with AD & PR agency next week;
- * Admin-other costs > I presume costs for credit card services and (internet) related costs. You do have to understand, a few Russians do have credit cards. Almost all the ticket will be sold as CASH. Costs related to this cell might be less, but day time security might be higher. Let's discuss face-to face.
- * I won't count on too much 'audio rent'...prices are NOT cheap for locals, but anyway...
- * Sheet 'cash phasing' > expenses are taken average over the 6 months. Cash (cost) wise, it will differ. How are we gonna structure the finance?
- * We (probably) have a solution to transfer your shares to your bank account. Let's discuss face-to face.
- * Also -again- what about office/start up costs One-GO?
- * Sheet: Sensitivity/Break evens. Etc. > no link to go to (of course), but are we dealing in the future with actuals or fixed costs up front?
- * Local -labor- costs > just count on my Excel sheet on daily - or monthly rates. We just have to add some percentage (15% presumable) to pay taxes, take the risk and finance, etc. As I explained earlier in my mails, it will be done by an separate company.

* no insurances? Probably 'some where' in your costs.

That's it for now.

As I have to use my mobile now, maybe it would be handy to 'study' my mails first and discuss via office phone tomorrow all required details.
Please advise.

Warm regards,
Pk

I will make some changes based on your comments
I will send you a revised BP
